The address was arranged at a time when reports from the agricultural regions showed considerable unrest.

Stephen Early, secretary to the president, said the president would discuss "many subjects of current interest and importance."

It is expected principal attention will be devoted to the administration's plans for aiding agriculture. The cabinet discussed this situation thoroughly today and there is reason to believe the government is ready to offer loans on those crops still held by the farmers.

Cut From Retail Code

WASHINGTON. Oct. 20.—(P)—
President Roosevelt was reported reliably today to have stricken out of the master code for retailers the provision that would have declared sales below invoice cost plus 10 per cent an unfair trade practice.

However, the extent to which the administration would attempt to protect independent stores by banning unfair competition through price-slashing still was an official secret as President Roosevelt departed for a week-end trip.

One report said that while Mr. Roosevelt had agreed that the costplus provision should not be written into the code, as proposed by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, its inclusion might be left to the discretion of the code authority created under the charter.

The president, in a letter dated October 10, said that from the beginning of his administration he had considered ending the "abnormal relations between the 125,000,000 people of the United States and the 160,000,000 people of Russia." matic chancelleries of Europe are firmly convinced today that establishment of normal relations between the United States and soviet Russia will evoke far greater repercussions in the far east than in Europe.

These experts on political trends believe that the most important immediate effect will be to bridle Japanese expansion on the mainland of Asia, at China's expense so far-but possibly at Russia's in north Manchuria and Siberia, unless checked.

Many foreign affairs experts have gone farther than this and surmise that the recent swing of the Asiatic balance-of-power in Japan's favor may be halted by co-operation between the United States and soviets.

War Fears Allayed. Rightly or wrongly, the restoration of political relations is generally expected to diminish, if not completely allay, the fears of a Japanese war growing recently in Russia and in some sections of the United States.

The move probably will not prove entirely popular in European capitals. that the United States may replace Germany as the chief recipient of soviet purchases abroad is one of the more acute factors in determining the German attitude on this question. If Moscow secures favorable credit terms in the United States, Russia's purchases there may be extended from cotton and metals, such as copper and tin, to heavy industrial machinery now bought largely in Germany.

Next Week.

The British attitude will be dictated by both political and commercial results of the move. They desire to increase their own trade relations with the soviet union and at the same with the soviet union and at the same time look uneasily on any alliance or more designed to strengthen Russia, whose vast republics adjoin the British spheres of influence in many places in the east.

FOR U. S. SEEN BY FRENCH
PARIS, Oct. 20.—(P)—The opening of broader trade possibilities for the United States in a fight against the depression was seen here tonight as the chief goal of President Roosevelt's invitation to begin negotiations for the recognition of Russia.

Government Parker stressed the need for vocational guidance as one of the "five primary objectives of our organization," and said that if it had been given to the present generation of adults "we would not now be dealing with the same problem presented by an army of unemployed. Government circles considered the action also as the logical outcome of the Japanese-American situation.

"Every unit of government must balance its budget and keep it balanced," International President Johns said at a luncheon at the Angle. Negotiations for a Franco-soviet trade treaty meanwhile were reported progressing favorably.

Unless unforeseen obstacles are met, the French expect the pact to be initialed shortly. The aerial good-will tour led by Air Minister Pierre Cot to Russia created a favorable impression, it was understood.

The treaty will be inaugurated by several large Russian orders for French civil military airplanes, according to present plans.

The NRA has been investigating specific complaints of high prices on cotton goods for the past three weeks, going over invoices to merchants and tracing back through the cost figures of the distributors and manufacturers to determine whether the increases have been reasonable. # REYNOLDS ESTATE CASE I

Bank Contesting Agreement for Division of Tobacco Heir's Millions.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 20.—(P)—
The North Carolina supreme court heard arguments today on the proposed distribution of Smith Reynolds' share of his father's tobacco millions under which a charitable foundation of from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 would be established.

The proposal, agreed to by his heirs and relatives, would establish trust funds of $2,000,000 for his little daughter, Anne Cannon Reynolds, II, and his posthumous son, child of Libby Holman Reynolds, former Broadway torch singer. Mrs. Reynolds would receive $500,000, the same amount given Anne Cannon Reynolds, his first wife, when she and Smith his first wife, when she and Smith were divorced. The remainder of his share of his father's estate would be used for the charitable foundation.

The agreement was opposed by the Cabarrus Bank & Trust Company, of Concord, co-guardian of baby Anne Reynolds. Mrs. Annie L. Cannon, of Concord, the child's grandmother and the other co-guardian, agreed to it.

The Cabarrus county superior court approved the proposed settlement and the bank appealed to the state supreme court.

Smith Reynolds was shot to death in July, of last year, at Reynolda, the family home at Winston-Salem. He was only 21 years old at the time and had not received his share of his father's extensive was basic hald in money this year.

Harry Brown, extension director of the University of Georgia system, said today that in addition to this sum, Georgia's 1933 cotton crop would yield about the same as in 1932.

Thus, he said, farmers in this state have already profited by nereage reduction—for, which they were paid either in money or options on government-owned cotton—and have a big crop ready for the open market.

Pegging the price of cotton at 10 cents. Brown said, would mean a profit to farmers who accepted options at 6 cents, of around 820 a bale or about $4,280,000, which added to what had been paid directly for reduction, gives them a $13,000,000 federal aid income.

Since the pegging of the price by the government at 10 cents is based on the willingness of the farmers to reduce their 1934 acreage up to 40 per cent, based on a five-year production average. Brown said there would he no trouble in getting Georgia farmers to sign up.

Since granting of the franchise in 1900 the company has established lines to Blackshear. Patterson. Screven. Offerman. Jesup. Odum. Cogdell. Homerville. Dupont. Echols county and Waresboro. The city contends the three per cent of gross revenue should apply to these extensions.

SECURITY FOR RELIEF LOANS.

Following Governor Talmadge's success in working out plans under which the federal relief administration has agreed, despite the constitutional limitation on borrowing in Georgia, to advance funds for the construction of a new state prison and three large bridges, every local government in the state should ascertain whether or not it is in their power to present any type of security for such loans.

The state advisory board has definitely announced that unincumbered highway certificates will be accepted as good security, and the leasing proposal on the state prison and the self-liquidating nature of ditional methods of advancing adequate security.

The administration has laid particular stress on the fact that small projects, for which only the cash grants are sought, receive prompt attention, because it is unnecessary to go into the legal questions raised when a combined loan and grant are applied for.

To obtain a grant, a public body must have power to sell sufficient ernment. of its bonds, less the grant, if allowed to complete the project, these bonds to include general obligation bonds, revenue bonds where nese population are evidently belegal or district assessment bonds; or power to convey the site to the federal government to reimburse the government for its outlay, less the grant. In addition, grants can be secured by public bodies in process of securing necessary pow- have as a matter of fact a record of the the applying government or corporation shall have a balanced budget, being in process of balancing, or be able to give assurance that such balancing can be accomplished.

Many of the grants which have been made by the relief administration under these conditions are for small amounts, some as low as $300. Undoubtedly there are in Georgia many municipalities that need minor improvements, but of a necessary nature, for which grants could be secured.

The governor in devising practical plans for the advancement of federal relief money has given an object lesson to local officials and business leaders that in the recovery program, as well as in other artificial ice in their manner. activities, "where there is a will. there is a way."

Despite the constitutional borrowing limitation, there are undoubtedly ways in which millions of dollars of federal relief funds can of life also depends upon the size be brought to Georgia. USE YOUR BELLY TO BOOST YOUR CIRCULATION.

Take care lest you betray your ig-norance, my friend, by seeing an im-propriety where there is none. There is no other term in the English lan-guage for what I intend to express. It would be awkward and prudish to say anterior wall of the abdomen when this perfectly good Anglo-Saxon word precisely signifies bellows.

The Mitchells and the Morgans came down here last spring and tried to talk their way through alone. It did not work very well.

The new troop of witnesses is working an inside system which very effectively eases the spanking they are getting.

The private banker, Clarence Dillon, worked it so well that the FLOWERS The secret of Dillon's success was his disarming approval of what the committee was doing. Prosecutor Pecora could pick no fights with him.

Mr. Dillon believed that all corporations should be made to publish truthful statistics concerning their financial condition, instead of the crudely evasive statements they publish now. That happens to be one of the outstanding things the committee is work-Other things found him similarly sympathetic. Some of his Wall Street friends may pass him by back in New York for his heresy, but outside of that the recommendation cost him nothing.

It brought smiles or words of approval from all the committee members save one. That one was Senator Couzens, who growled about "flowers being distributed around here," and left.

MIRDER The technique of Albert H. Wiggin was even more co-operative. As one wag remarked to Pecora, his questions were generally something like this: Mr. Wiggin, before you committed this murder, if you did commit murder, you probably disemboweled the victim, eh?'

And Mr. Wiggin would generally nod his head and answer meekly:

"That's fine," Mr. Pecora would say, starting the question all

ARRANGEMENT Pals of Ferdinand Pecora say he will get Mr. Roosevelt's appointment as federal district attorney in New York if he loses out in the city election fight. A little understanding to that effect is supposed to have been made on the inside before Pecora got into the McKee fight.

At least, some of the Pecora people look on it as an understanding. Perhaps you-could not call it a deal, but just a little half vague promise. That is the way those things are usually worked. It means Pecora has nothing to worry about, no matter how the election goes.

That is important because Pecora is carrying a bigger load than McKee. The mayor is elected by the entire vote of the city, but the Manhattan district attorneyship is decided on the result in that borough alone. And that borough is where the Tammany

It is quite possible, therefore, that McKee will win and Pecora lose. Nevertheless the two are keeping in close contact on the progress of the campaign. The other day Pecora adjourned the stock market investigation in the middle of the examination of Albert H.

ance at Chicago. Roosevelt's decision to go to Chicago was made fully a month before the convention opened. He made a promise to National Commander Johnson at that early date, and did not make up his mind to go on the spur of the moment as advertised. What happened on the inside was this.

Johnson was taking a little vacation in the Canadian wilds fully five weeks before the convention. He heard that Mr. Roosevelt might not go and thereupon hit the trail for Washington. He found the president ill in bed, but managed to get an audience in the

The president told him flatly that he would go no matter what happened. It was agreed the decision should not be announced. From that time until the day the president left Hyde Park for Chicago, the White House continuously denied that the president would make the trip. Some of his associates were afraid that he might encounter difficulties because of his economy stand, but their advice was never seriously considered. (Copyright, 1933, by Paul Mallon.)

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My father used to say: "It is foolish to worry about a thing you can't help, and stupid to worry about a thing you can help. If you can help it, there's no cause for worry; if you can't help it, worry does no good." You show no signs of becoming a worrier but doubtless you will carry the usual burden of fear, and that is a kindred calamity.

Fear, I suspect, causes' more unhappiness body lives in fear of something—of ill health or unpopularity or poverty or death, or even said life itself. And fear keeps them on the ragged edge of misery.

nothing I can do about it if you do, but I can show you how to reason yourself out of it before the habit takes root. It's a simple plan, based on the fact that fear, like worry, is shamefully stupid if it can't do any good. Some fear, of course, is necessary and profitable. A reasonable fear which Joe Moyse had lived for 50 causes you to run out of doors during an earthquake or fire and to watch your step in a region infested by snakes. But the other kind is like a tantrum. If you yearned for a new frock and knew you could get it by throwing yourself on the floor and screaming blue murder, the profit might justify the antics. All of us would forget our dignity and act silly if it would make us rich. But would you lie on the floor and scream if you knew such spoiled-brat tactics would bring no results? You would not. Natural dignity and common sense would prevent it. Well, why surrender to fear if that doesn't change matters? Suppose you are in a thunderstorm. If you could make yourself safe by shuddering and screaming, it would be sensible to shudder and

But since each bolt will inevitably strike in the same place, whether you smile or squeal, isn't it silly to give way to fear? It would be as sensible, and as useful, to stand on your head.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 20.—I've always wondered at the insatiable autograph hounds who crowded the entrances to studios, cafes and theaters, persecuting the stars. My wonder has changed to grim awe! Buying of mules by southern farmers has increased approximately 1,000 per cent in the last year and the Atlanta stockyards is shipping 200 of the animals a day to Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas.

The extent of increase in the buying of mules by southern farmers is shown by comparative figures of recent months and those of a year ago.

In August, 1932, the N., C. & St. L. railroad handled 122 mules consigned to the Atlanta stockyards. In August of this year the railroad brought in 1,297 mules.

Michigan Meets Ohio State, Army Faces Illinois Among Leaders.

By Edward J. Neil,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(P)—The football picture of the nation tomorrow is a sort of a volcano, rising

There the major drama of Octo-There the major drama of October's third Saturday will roll out like "You see," said Mr. lava waves as two eastern leaders provide the intersectional highlights of the day, Ohio State and Michigan hard and they do not lock in a battle that may determine the new Big Ten champion and the Big Six works its way to a climax.

Nothing the east, the far west, the south and the southwest offers for the day can outweigh Army's first major engagement of the season against the rising power of Illinois in Cleveland, the invasion of Minnesota by the Golden Panthers of Pittsburgh, and Notre Dame's assault once more on the troublesome Tartans of Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh, on the fringe of the midwest.

With Minnesota tied by Purdue and Indiana and the latter beaten by Notre Dame, Northwestern trimmed by Iowa and Wisconsin walloped by Illinois, the Ohio State-Michigan duel brings the Big Ten to an early climax. ## Coach Ted Cox Sees End in Sight as Tulane Newspapermen Fumble!

"Oh, my, yes," said Mr. Horace Renegar, the Tulane public relations man. "Oh, my, yes. I am sure the Tulane team will not fumble Saturday as they have in the past.

"aylor, Friday morning on the Capital City Club course. Mrs. Reade and climated the week's play with an and climated the week's play with an

"You see," said Mr. Renegar, as he paused with a forkfull 82, eight strokes better than in the of luncheon salad halfway to his mouth, "the boys have worked

Just then Mr. Renegar fumbled the forkfull of salad and it rolled down his tie. He recovered with a quick move of his napkin, but he was blushing furious-When the Tulane publicity man begins fumbling, it is a most embarrassing matter. The team has fumbled away two games, but then when the malady spreads to the non-playing ranks-

Very few people saw the Renegar fumble. And so he ent on with the story.

Mr. William McGregor Keefe, the splendid gentleman and sports editor of the Times-Picayune, saw the fumble and he kicked Mr. Renegar viciously under the table and on the shins.

Thereupon Mr. Renegar ran a couple of safe plays. He used two biscuit plays right through the middle and came and Purdue and the crowning conference struggle of Ohio State and Michigan's defending champions at Ann along strong. along strong.

He reached the last of the third quarter, which was being played with an omelet and potato cakes.

"You boys have been teasing us about fumbles," he said, going along strong. "But let me tell you. The boys are not going to-

And just then Mr. Renegar fumbled again, losing a potato cake which hit his tie, skidded off to one knee and thence out of bounds.

Mr. Bill Keefe again kicked Mr. Renegar and went in at quarterback himself. Mr. Renegar put down his equipment and declared himself out.

Mr. Keefe finished out the third quarter and went into the fourth, which was being played with a custard dessert.

"I think Georgia Tech is the favorite team," he said. "Tech should win. But as for those fumbles. Well, in the Georgia game we should have won but for the fumbles. And that is improved. We have quit this fumbling. Why—"

And just then Mr. Keefe fumbled a spoonful of custard and it went over to the dry cleaners on his tie. There was no more said, the hosts being courteous, until the Tulane man reached Coach Ted Cox and his team, which was working out on Grant field. "Coach," said Bill Keefe, "even the Tulane newspaper men are fumbling."

Well, well," said Ted Cox, "that means the end is in sight. If you guys are fumbling maybe you can fumble it all out before Saturday and the team will hold the ball."

EACH HAVE MENTAL HAZARD.

It appears that the gamboleers who support each team with an interest almost entirely mercenary, are in a very unusual situation this week.

The Tulanians arrived asking seven points. Only to find the Technicians asking seven. There was some waving of bills and some imprecations, but no agreement as to points. They were still as far apart as Hitler and France when evening came.

Unless there is some relenting there will be almost no vio-lating of the betting laws when the large mass of Tulane fans arrived. They are due this morning at 7 o'clock, a terrible hour, when few honest city folk are awake. This attitude of those willing to wager is an indication of just how close this football game is. It is one which should pack the stands. It rates as a toss-up with Georgia Tech resembling the underdog. In fact the more I peer at the Jackets the more they appear to be underdogs.

This is admittedly a rare metamorphosis, changing a Yellow Jacket into an underdog but that's what's been done.

THERE WILL BE A PETITION.

There will be a petition, I am sure, sent to the board of egents after the Tulane-Georgia Tech game today. The petition will ask that two of the most beautiful young ladies in Georgia be permitted to enter Georgia Tech and help lead the cheers at the football game.

Mr. Renegar, the Tulane public relations man, says that the Tulane band is to be on hand for the game and that the two young ladies who help lead cheers for Tulane will arrive this morning, chaperoned by the society editor of the esteemed Times-Picsyune.

It seems that Tulane exacts the utmost from its cheering section. Even the lazy students and those lacking in school spirit will cheer when the cheers are led by ravishingly beautiful young ladies. The masculine cheer leaders at Tulane match profiles with the young men in collar ads. If they make the grade then they are accepted as cheer leaders. They inspire the co-eds to cheer loudly.

I have never been able to determine, watching games at Tulane, whether the cheering section of co-eds and young men were cheering the cheer leaders or the team. have, however, known veteran football reporters to fall far behind with their stories while watching the cheer leaders.

MERCER COMES CLOSE.

Mercer University came close to beating Georgia's Bulldogs Friday afternoon. The score, 13 to 12, must appear a bit ironical to Mercer. Georgia has been missing field goals all fall with astonishing regularity. But they got the one they needed Friday— which happens to be what usually wins games -having what it takes in the pinch.

Mercer was doped to lose by several touchdowns but I knew that Lake Russell, the capable coach of the Bears, was shooting to win. He caught a Georgia team down and really didn't let it up again. Georgia escaped with the scare of their lives. A football season was almost ruined for the Bulldogs. Too much praise cannot be given to Russell and his team for holding the Georgia eleven even in touchdowns. Georgia, starting a second team, had to throw everything in the game to win. It cost Georgia some prestige as the Bulldogs were up against the records of the Navy and Army teams against Mercer. But Georgia won and while Harry Mehre is undoubtedly disappointed he was undoubtedly happy to win by the one point that was his.

For Mercer it was the old adage of "so near and yet so far." There is glory in it for Mercer but it is still another defeat and therefore a disappointment as Mercer was shooting to win. The score certainly removed any idea the Bulldogs might have entertained about their own greatness. It will send them into the New York game raging and fighting-which is the best way to enter one.

McQuaig and Allen Score for Bears; Grane's Kick Decides.

By Jimmy Jones.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 20.—A lone extra point kicked from Cy Grant's toe pulled the Georgia football team out of a close spot here this afternoon before 12,000 spectators when the unbeaten red juggernaut from Athens was forced to come from behind in the last half to escape its first defeat of the season at the hands of Lake Russell's surprising Mercer team.

first defeat of the season at the hands of Lake Russell's surprising Mercer team.

Upon that solitary digit, added by Grant after he scored Georgia's first touchdown in the third quarter hung the victory, the Bulldogs finally winning, 13 to 12, after staving off several Mercer drives that threatened to change that margin.

None of the home-coming day throng which came here today had any idea that one man's toe would decide that battle. Most of them were spotting three touchdowns.

Then when the Mercer team took charge of the ball at the game's start and held it for all but seven minutes of the first half to lead 6-0 at the end of it, they became slowly conscious of the fact that the Bulldogs were in for a battle. And a battle it was from start to finish with the Bulldogs escaping a tie in the final period when Mercer failed to convert the extra point after Henry Allen, a sophomore of Lafayette, Ga., plunged through the Georgia line 10 yards for the Bears' second score.

The statistics show that there was nothing accidental or freakish about that score. They show that Georgia made 15 first downs, two of them unearned, and that Mercer's offense gathered 14 first downs, three unearned.

Abe Attell, former feather-weight champion of the world, and one of the greatest boxers the game ever saw, spent Friday in Atlanta. He was en route to Texas where he will be connected with the track there in the first year of legal racing in the Lone Star state.

Attell was officially recognized as the champion in 1908 although many had accepted him as champion before that date. He knocked out Tommy Sullivan in four rounds at San Francisco in 1908. He lest the title to Johnny Kilbane in 1912. He was one of the cleverest boxers the game has ever seen.

Attell was drawn into the 1919 Black Sox baseball scandal but was cleared by the courts. Since that time he has handled fight-ers and worked about race tracks. The one-time champion is

SCORING THREAT.

A 63-yard pass, Smith to Captain Maffett early in the first quarter, was the outstanding scoring threat for the Purples. Maffett was tackled from behind by Bethea on G. M. A.'s 5-yard line. The Cadet forward wall halted three line smashes and batted a pass down and took the ball on downs.

Early in the second quarter, Bethea, behind some fine blocking, broke through right tackle and dashed 68 yards before being stopped by Smith on Boys' High's 19-yard line. It was G. M. A.'s best play and the one real threat that was halted a few plays later as Smith intercepted a Cadet pass on the 22-yard line. G. M. A.'s entire line, particularly Rice at center, played an exception-ally good game. Rice called signals and backed up the line and made a majority of the Cadet tackles. Jung, converted from a tackle to a halfback, played well on defense, as Captain Manes, Duggan and Crews, also were outstanding in the backfield.

SMITH STARS. Carlisle Smith was Boys' High's big star. He ran well with the ball, threw passes and did all the punting. He also played safety and was the spark of the Purple backfield. Captain Maffett, Jones and Brooks in the line also played well for Boys' ligh.

Needlecraft Circle Is Entertained By Mrs. Biggs

The Needlecraft Circle was entertained Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. E. Biggs, at 516 Hardendorf, and the meeting was presided over by Mrs. E. E. Barry, the president. The club voted to contribute to the Tallulah Falls school, and Mrs. A. Burdell gave a report of the fifth district meeting of federated clubs which eight members of Needlecraft attended. Mrs. Fred Reese, reporting for the sewing committee, stated a quota of 300 garments would be completed before the end of the year for the Needlework Guild.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson was introduced by Mrs. George W. Powell and related her experiences in Europe and her impressions of the country and status of European women compared with American women. Her description of her journey was colorful, particularly her travel in Italy, the most universally visited country in Europe. She talked of the beauty of the city of Florence of the Renaissance, with its everlasting works and its galleries of the world's finest art and described the celebrated bronze doors of Ghiberti, which, in the opinion of Michelangelo, were worthy to guard the entrance of Paradise. Leaving this city of the Illy, Mrs. Richardson told of the incomparable beauty of the Bay of Naples and of Venice, once queen of the Adriatic, and thence to Rome and Pompeii, giving a glimpse of by-gone life in this city whose ancient houses, recently uncovered, stand just as they were when Vesuvius interrupted the convivial hour. In contrast to these historical cities was her description of the French homes of today with their quaint trimmings of bright blue and life of women of today with their quaint trimmings of bright blue and life of women of today in European countries.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief ar money refunded.

Not long ago there was published a picture showing a panoramic view of the city of New York, the waters that surround it and Long Island that lay beyond. Underneath this that lay beyond. Underneath this picture was an explanatory note saying that the naked eye of man had never seen the island from the city because of the fogs that overhung the water. But a photographer with the aid of the infra-red ray stood on the top of the Empire State building and photographed city, water and land that nestled in the water. Similarly there is a fog before the eyes of these there is a fog before the eyes of these young people that prohibits their see-ing into their own hearts, much less into each other's hearts: that fog is physical attraction. It can be pierced with the light of the mind, a difficult task but not an impossible one.

his absence and yearned for his return. One day that son started back to his father and "when he was yet a great way off" his father saw him and ran to meet him. He couldn't wait for the boy to arrive.
He was eager to put his arm about him, to reassure him of his love and forgiveness. All heartaches were stilled, all the old scores wiped out, all offenses forgiven, all injuries forgotten in the glorious reunion.

And then that father did the thing that love always suggests: he gave his son the best he had; costly clothea and shoes, a gold ring for his finger, and a fine feast. In a perfect frenzy of joy he cried out: "Bring hither the fatted calf and kill it and let us eat and be merry; for this my son was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found." This is the way love works: It is selfless compassionate, frank, generous, joyous, eager, protective, and carries conviction in its every expression. And then that father did the thing in its every expression.

Love doesn't make demands, nor is it vindictive when disappointed in its expectations. Love is not querulous but rather it makes excuses for the dear one's faults and foibles. Love is not unforgiving. It suffers long and is kind. All these are the hall-marks of love and they may be read with the mind's eye. Accept no substitute, young people. Don't be deceived by another emotion less complex but in its own way powerful. Don't accept a synthetic gem for the pearl of great price.

Faces, figures, hands and feet all vary with the individual. Natures are simple or complex, temperaments, warm or cool, mentalities strong or the heart that beats in Barnes. each breast knows the same yearnings, harbors the same hunger and satisfies it in the same way, only the degree of hunger varies and proportionately the amount necessary to

By VICTOR EUBANK. NEW YORK, Oct. 20 .- (P)-Bonds shuffled about nervously today, declining and recovering spasmodically and finishing with losses and gains about even.

Traders in the more speculative issues were torn between optimism developed by the rally in stocks and commodities and doubt resulting from another slump of European gold currencies in terms of the dollar. Reports of American negotiations with Russia looking toward early recognition of the soviets apparently had little effect on prices generally.

The market's activity was slightly less than that of yesterday, sales totaled $9,645,000, par value. The average for 60 depositic corrects learning age for 60 domestic corporate loans age for 60 domestic corporate loans was unchanged.

Rails that closed fractionally to around a point higher included some maturities of Alleghany Corporation, Santa Fe. Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, Pennsylvania, Southern and Chesapeake & Ohio. Among losers in this group were liens of Frisco, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Nickel Plate, New York Central, Missouri Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Illinois Central, Great Northern and Rock Island.

Modest advances were held by loans nois Central, Great Northern and Rock Island.

Modest advances were held by loans of American Sugar Refining, American Telephone, Atlantic Refining Hudson Coal, International Telephone. Pacific Gas, Pacific Telephone. Utilities Power & Light and Warner Brothers.

While Liberty fourth 4 1-4s, both the called and uncalled series, eased most of the treasuries were slightly higher. The reduction of the federal reserve rediscount rate from 2 1-2 to 2 per cent seemingly was no great stimulant to the government list.

Foreign obligations were dull and irregular. French bonds lost 2 or more points as the franc declined. Dutch East Indies issues were down 3 to around 8 on a few sales and loans of Poland, Switzerland and Cuba were 1 to 2. The Argentines improved.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(P)—The New York reserve bank as a director but the governor has never assumed the post because of a ruling by Secretary of State Stimson in 1929 forbidding it.

The ruling, the Times says, was prompted by the fact that the World bank of New York, to the board of the World bank.

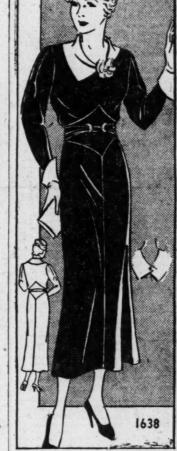

Administration and federal reserve officials have under consideration the advisability of Harrison's becoming a World bank director to succeed Gates W. McGarrah, recently resigned.

The World bank charter calls for the selection of the governor of the ruling, the Times says, was prompted by the fact that the World bank was tied up with the question of war debts and reparations. Under the Lausanne agreement, however, reparations have been temporarily wiped off the slate, the paper says, and the general suspension of war debts payments has left the World bank without its original function and made it purely an instrument of central banking co-operation.

Market Outlook MAX BUCKINGHAM

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 .- (UP)-

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(UP)—
Impending diplomatic conversations between the United States and Russia regarding recognition of the soviet republic, was interpreted tonight as a good market omen.

Recognition of Russia has been rumored several times since the Roosevelt administration came into power. Each time the rumor died down, but generally had been accompanied by accelerated buying. Today, after the market had opened irregular and then started sagging, the rumor spread again. United Press advices from Moscow saying negotiations were pending gave momentum to conversations in Wall Street. The market staged one of the best rallies seen in several days. Prices—particularly on issues which would benefit by the increased trade soviet recognition would bring—spurted forward 1 to 6 points. Trading picked up.

GAINS ARE HELD.

The market calmed down near the close but held gains of 1 to 3 points. From one source comes the advice that if recognition is decreed the following groups will benefit:

Farm equipment shares as farm equipment will be bought by Russia.

Railway equipment shares for Russia may need $100,000,000 worth of such equipment.

sia may need $100,000,000 worth of such equipment.

Electric equipment shares.

Some cotton.

Tomorrow's market, of course, presents a peculiar picture. The session will be but two hours and the ordinary course is for Saturday sessions to see some week-end selling. In addition the volume of trading had died down in the last hour today and prices had slipped off from their high points. (Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

College, of Augusta, Ga., this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park. This annual affair between the two noted rivals should be one of the best games of the current season.

The new 21-piece band under the leadership of W. J. James, will play throughout the game. The game will be announced through a huge amplifier with several microphones stationed at strategic points of the grandstand.

The Paine team arrived Friday afternoon and confirmed reports that several coaches of rooters would arrive in Atlanta early Saturday morning. Twenty-eight men and two coaches made up the Paine party.

Coaches Forbes, Ellis and Williams are looking forward to a hard game. The 6-0 victory scored by Morehouse last year is fresh in their memory. With practically a new team the Paine football squad last season almost defeated the locals and the team is said to have improved.

The Morehouse squad is on edge for this game. The return of Kelly, all-Southern quarterback of 1931. has sent the Maroon stock soaring high. With this veteran in the backfield the Tigers' defense is expected to improve greatly over the last performance here.

Mr. O'Shocker did a regular airplane spin into the midst of the proceedings.

"In my line," he said, proudly, "I also am an artist. See, let me show you my art!" Whereupon he twisted the neck of a portly dowager, deposited her suddenly on the floor, and stood back, smiling. After her first amazement, the dowager was thrilled. She told her friends, and shortly Mr. O'Shocker was depositing other dowagers, a few bold males and a sprinkling of debutantes, on polished drawing room floors, amid much grimacing, posturing and excited screams.

In a brief time Mr. O'Shocker has become practically indispensable at private social gatherings. Grunts and groans resound from gay parties as he goes about expertly hammerlocking excited social leaders. "For growers who have sold all or part of their crops," it was explained, "the government would place it at current prices. Those who hold options representing plow-up cotton would be encouraged to keep these off the market by an immediate cash advance of four cents per pound, which, with the six cents already advanced, would bring the amount to ten cents, the sum now authorized by the government on actual cotton."

Under the plan, whatever price advance is obtained through next spring's acreage control would be passed back to the crop now being marketed, the only restriction being that growers receiving the benefit must do their part in the acreage control, which is expected to cut American cotton acreage to 25.000,000.

The factor counted upon, it was said, to prevent governmental loss is that the holding and financing program is "tied inseparably to limitation of supply," a factor which officials stated was lacking in previous efforts to control price of farm commodities.

The plan also provides for authorizing the secretary of agriculture to sell the cotton and options when "parity price" has been reached, that is, when cotton will buy as much in things the farmers use as it bought before the war.
